Now is the time to buy farms from John Duley.

This is the last day for payment of May 1st gas bills.

The new chairs for the Council Chamber have arrived. They are much more comfortable than the old ones.

Ladies of the First Presbyterian Church will serve icecream and strawberries from 7 to 10 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Church.

Mr. Thomas Kinney, aged 18, died at Portsmouth, O., Friday night of measles. His remains were brought here yesterday and buried in the Catholic Cemetery at Washington.

The funeral of the late Colonel W. W. Baldwin will occur from "Auvorgne" at 2:30 this afternoon, with services by the Revs. W. W. Hall and P. A. Cavo of the Christian Church, the interment to follow in Maysville Cemetery.

The following gentlemen have been selected to act as honorary pall bearers at the funeral of Colonel W. W. Baldwin this afternoon—Dr. Thomas E. Pickett, J. Foster Barbour, Judge G. S. Wall, W. H. Wadsworth, Judge A. M. J. Cochran, C. L. Salles, W. P. Smoot and Frank B. Clift.

George Wilson and John Clayton, two colored dining-room waiters at the Central Hotel, got into an altercation last evening, and Wilson inflicted several wounds on Clayton's head and face with an ice-pick. Considerable blood was spilled, but no serious damage sustained. Dr. Reed dressed the wounds of the injured man.

The Maysville Screen Company, now that fly time is here, has something of especial interest to say in another column.

The Rev. Hugh Y. Harvin, a graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and District Superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home Society, died Friday at the residence of his mother in Oakwood, Fleming county, of typhoid fever, aged 29. He had been ill for about five weeks, but was not considered in a dangerous condition until a few hours before his death.

THE CIRCUS HERE

Robinson's Big Shows Ready For Two Performances Today

John Robinson's Ten Big Shows, the oldest, largest and best, are in Maysville for two performances, 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. Doors open at 1 p. m. and 7 p. m.

Many citizens looked the monster aggregation over yesterday. At 2 p. m. most of these citizens listened to Rev. W. H. Sheak, the Methodist Minister with the show, preach on "Poker Playing." During his sermon he told this funny story: A rolling mill man at fronton, O., several years ago played poker every Saturday night and always lost all his weekly earnings. One Saturday night the keeper refused him admittance, because the game was filled. The man took his money and threw it through the open transom to the players, saying, "Take it, you rascals; you'll get it anyhow."

The street parade moved at 10 a. m. It was two miles in length. Its like was never seen before. It cost $300,000.

The horses, ponies and wagons used only in parade will be taken to the show train and loaded at dusk. These are no part of the big show and are hurried to the next town as "The Flying Squadron."

See the new Cut Glass at McCarthy's. Captain Alex Calhoun is now in command of the steamer Courier.

Miss Davis's Silver Soap at Miss Amelia Wood's room, Court street.

Saturday evening about 5 o'clock streetcar No. 4, in turning into Market street, struck a rock and bounded from the rails and ran quite a distance up Second. It took Captain Holliday and his corps of workmen over an hour to place it back on the track.

Jesse Bradley, a fifteen-year-old lad, was bestride a horse Saturday afternoon and as he turned out of Second into Market the animal slipped and fell on the iron crossing. In the fall the boy's leg received the full weight of the horse. His only injury was a badly sprained ankle.

NOTICE.

Take shares in the People's Building Association. Twenty-fourth series now open. Apply to E. A. Robinson, J. E. Threlkeld, Gordon Sulzer or other Directors.

James Small, the Evangelist, will deliver a lecture at the Mayslick Christian Church Wednesday evening, May 9th. Subject, "Laughter and Tears." Admission 25 cents.

PLENTY OF ICE WATER.

MASON CROP REPORT

The Poor Little Pessimists Given a Blooming Black Eye

Colonel Charles C. Degman of Springdale, who is Uncle Sam's crop forecaster for this county, says the condition of wheat is rather thin on the ground, not having stood well, and is also rather short, possibly because of the continued dry April weather. The crop at this time is estimated at 85% of a normal growth. About the usual quantity of rye was sown last fall, and its condition is estimated at 90% of a normal crop. At least 60% is, or will be, turned under, leaving about 40% for market.

Oats was mostly lately sown, but is coming forward nicely, considering the dry weather. Tares may be said of clover and other grasses sown this spring.

Pastures are very good, but a little short. Fruits of all kinds except peaches will be abundant, from the fact their present condition is very satisfactory. Peaches were winter killed in many localities, but a fine, healthy bloom where they were not killed indicates a fine supply of them, barring future unfavorable weather. Stock of all kinds is showing improved conditions.

Of the corn land 60% is plowed and 40% is planted. Gardens are coming out nicely. The farmer that kicks in Mason county now, since the late rains, should not be allowed to kick at any one save himself.

Mr. F. T. Cavendish of Huntington, W. Va., was in the city Saturday visiting the various stock farms with the view of buying a few thoroughbreds.

The Standard Cigar Company, $1,500, and the Cynthia's Overalls Company, $10,000, have filed articles of incorporation at Frankfort.

PRESERVE THE ESPLANADE.

MAYSVILLE, KY., May 4th, 1906.

Editor of The Ledger: In answer to your question, "Are you in favor of tearing away the Esplanade, the only public breathing place we have in the city, and converting it into a street?" I wish to say I am not in favor of so doing; but I am in favor of the city taking proper care of it, and making it a place of beauty that we all can feel proud of. This can be done by painting, and by planting two trees, which we need badly, and thereby taking care of same; also, by moving the benches, which seem to hold such charm for the numerous time idlers. Then by seeing that there is water to quench the thirst of the public, which every city should do. It is indeed a poor city that falls in this.

I am also in favor of erecting a bronze statue on the Esplanade to the memory of General Nelson, who saved the day at Shiloh, and I am willing to contribute my mite toward the same.

Elephants

And many other animals will be in the free street parade on Monday, and large crowds will take delight in hearing the music and viewing the wonders of the great show. JOHN DULEY will give you a better SHOW for your money if you will call at his office and get a list of farms, which will be free to all. He will also give you a good show if you wish to buy a house and lot. This fleeting pleasure which our uncle John Robinson agrees to furnish at 50c per head is only for an hour or two. The show which I propose to give you will be for a life time. You will think the scenes within the canvass are grand, inspiring, soul-stirring and all that, but if you will go with me to look at some of the farms that I have for sale I can show you more wonders and more beauties in one hour's time than you will see within the tents of this show in a lifetime.

Trusting that you will call and let me prove to you that the show which I will give you is better than Robinson's Forepaugh's, Sells Bros., Barnum's, William Cody's, Boer War or any of the grand traveling aggregations, I remain yours, determined to give you a fair and a good show,

"Man From Maysville"

Writes Graphically of the San Francisco Earthquake and Fire

THE LEDGER is permitted to reproduce the following graphically-written narrative of some of the events succeeding the San Francisco earthquake, contained in a private letter written by Mr. Harry Miles of this city, who had reached that city only a short time prior to the calamity:

St. Louis, Mo., May 3d, 1906.

My Dear Sister: You ask why I have not written you more about the fire and earthquake in 'Frisco. It is simply because I have not been able to collect my thoughts or sit down long enough to write a long letter. Everyone who passed through all the horrors following the memorable morning of April 18th and came out alive is to be considered lucky, but the strain on the nerves of even the men was something awful.

When the first terrible shock came, I was sound asleep, for it was 5:15 a. m.

I was soon awake and sitting straight up in bed, looking intently at the bay window and wondering how I would land when the house went to pieces, as I thought it would surely do. The shaking continued so long that I jumped out of bed, but when I touched the floor I was knocked over against the couch some ten feet away, and I found everything in the room coming to meet me. The furniture was knocked at least two feet away from the wall. When the shaking subsided a little I started to wash my face and hands but found there was no water in the pipes.

I then went to the window and saw the streets lined with hundreds of people, who were decidedly negligent.

My friend and I dressed in a hurry and then went down to see what had happened, never dreaming that such havoc had been wrought.

We lived only three squares from Market, which is the principal business street where most of the large office buildings and skyscrapers were located. We went straight to Market street and what sights of ruin met our gaze! The street was piled with shattered glass and masses of brick and immense stones from the corners of buildings.

We walked around for a few minutes and soon everything was in an uproar. People began arriving in automobiles by the dozen to view the ruins, but they were met by the Police and their autos taken to convey the wounded to the Hospitals. They soon had every kind of conveyance imaginable pressed into service as ambulances. The autos were given the right of way and they rushed like mad with their loads of mangled and bleeding forms to the Hospitals.

Whips were broken into dozens of pieces by the drivers hurrying the horses. All the Hospitals were soon filled and they began to use the immense Mechanics Pavilion as a Hospital. It, too, was soon crowded, but by this time people began slowly to realize that a more terrible enemy was stealing upon them.

As the fire began to make its onward march and the fact became generally known that the water pipes were broken and the city was practically without fire protection, everyone on the street seemed to have at the same time the look of despair and then determination upon their faces. The fire began in what is called the "Mission" District, South of Market and not far from the Mint and Postoffice.

When the firemen found it was impossible to get water, they began using dynamite, but the fire soon made its way to Market street and in a short while such buildings as the Palace Hotel with its beautiful "Palm Court," the eight-story Call Building, and the "Emporium," the largest department store in the city, had been gutted by the flames, although they were still standing.

By this time the people began to seek places of safety, for the U. S. Regulars were arriving and taking charge of affairs. Then the dynamiting began in earnest, but the supply was soon exhausted. A whole shipload was then brought down the bay from the Naval Station, when the dynamiting began again and continued with unabated fury for about three days and nights, when the fire was finally gotten under control.

The Mechanics Pavilion, where there were about three hundred or more injured and some dead, was burned about 10 o'clock the first morning, shortly after the injured had been brought there. They say the injured were saved, but the dead were abandoned to the flames. The Valencia Hotel, which was a five-story building, sank three stories under ground and buried about two hundred people alive.

It is my opinion, and also the opinion of many others, that the number of people who were buried alive or burned will never be known.

I could tell you of many heart-rending sights I saw, but they are too horrible to write about. I walked all around the city and some of the sights I saw will remain vividly in my mind till my dying day.

About 10 o'clock my friend and I drilled back to our room and put a few clothes in our suitcase and began our tiresome journey to some place—we didn't know where. We also took a pillow and quilt to sleep on, and they came in quite handy several times. We got to the head of Eddy street, which ends in a Cemetery on a high hill, and some good lady near there took care of us in the eating and sleeping line for two or three days.

The streets were lined with thousands of people pulling trunks or anything they could save through the streets. Women were working the same as men, and rich and poor were all on the same level. All the parks and Cemeteries soon became crowded with people, trunks, bedclothes and everything imaginable.

The rumor went all over the city that a wireless telegram had been received saying Chicago was under water and that New York and other Eastern cities were in the same condition as 'Frisco. It was also rumored that seven thousand people had been killed outright in Los Angeles. A great many people thought that Judgment Day had come.

As I saw the people fleeing from the flames, it reminded me of the description of the people fleeing from Pompeii as depicted by Bulwer Lytton. Certainly the calamity of 'Frisco would furnish as good a foundation for a beautiful story as did the destruction of Pompeii, if only another Bulwer Lytton writes the story.

The flames at night were the most beautiful and sublime spectacle I ever expect to see.

The air was so filled with smoke that the sun looked bloodred, and you could look straight at it all day long. The air was filled with cluders for miles and miles, and for two days and nights it rained cinders, and the tin roofing from houses was carried around through the air like paper. The asphalt streets were burned to dust and the heat was so intense that it could be felt as far away as you could get from the fire.

The prettiest sight was when they would dynamite some large building at night.

First, the roar of the explosion, followed immediately by the crash of the building as it collapsed, then a cloud of smoke and vivid flames like lightning would shoot several hundred feet into the air.

The flames would leap from one tower to another and make the midnight bright as day. They seemed to be carrying the message of death and suffering into the very sky. Their roar and crackling could be heard for over a mile.

The soldiers would take block at a time and dynamite the entire block. Chinatown was blown completely out of existence.

The soldiers and firemen made their last desperate stand at Van Ness avenue, which is the widest in the city, and used front doors and everything of the sort to keep the heat off.

We have vehicle news for you that is too good to keep. You know all material is higher than ever before and still climbing. Perhaps you think this will make our prices too high for you.

You are mistaken. We bought at the old prices, and will sell accordingly. These prices indicate what our vehicles are worth to us only. You will find them worth much more to you. Our stock is larger and more varied than ever.

What's your need or fancy? We have it at a price you are used to, and quality that you are not used to for the money. Your dollar will stretch like rubber, doing extra duty on a vehicle purchased from us. Now is the time, when the stock is new and full, to drop in and look around before the best things have been picked out by the early bird. You'll get a lot of beneficial information. Even if you are not in need of anything, you are just as cordially invited and will receive the same painstaking attention.

Come in.

"The Man From Maysville."

The fire crossed the avenue in two or three places but burned only a few blocks after it crossed, till it was under control and finally checked for good. And then how the good news spread and people cheered and those few who had homes left breathed easy once more and began unpacking.

The reign of Martial Law, although indispensable, added to the horrors on account of the young cadets and militia shooting many an innocent man. If it had not been for the U. S. Regulars, no telling what would have happened. They did noble service and certainly proved themselves heroes. Anyone who saw them work need not wonder why the "Boys in Blue" are invincible. The grocers began charging fifty cents for a loaf of bread, and other things were sold at prices in proportion till the Regulars found it out. They would simply kick the grocer out of his store and then distribute the goods among the people. Money was of very little use, for everything was being given away in about two days after the fire began.

I have stood in line an hour and a half to get a loaf of bread, and everyone in the city was doing the same thing. In fact you couldn't get anything at all without standing in line for it. No lights or fire were allowed in the houses, so all the cooking was done on a little campfire in the middle of the street. Some people just moved their stoves out in the street, and most all the cooking was done by the men. I helped cook several meals, but the meals only consisted in a loaf of bread, a little coffee and a can of something. Everyone seemed to take it good naturedly, however, and joked about it considerably.

Some of the young people across the street from us got a hill of fare from some place and tacked it up on a post near their stove. The only ones who were too sad to joke were the people who had lost some near and dear relative. It was a pathetic sight to see a family which had become separated looking for each other. There were thirty-six distinct shocks before I left and I have read of two since. On the first day I sat down at the table twice and tried to drink a cup of coffee and eat a slice of bread, and both times a shock came and I finished the bread in the middle of the street.

The beautiful $6,000,000 City Hall, which took twenty-five years to build, was shaken almost to dust. The new Postoffice is cracked on the outside and ndaken to pieces on the inside. The Mint was unharmed, and it made you feel good to see "Old Glory" still floating in the breeze when ruin and destruction were all around. The magnificent hotels, the St. Francis and the Fairmount, though still standing, are nothing but shells.

A great many people have asked me if the newspapers did not exaggerate the disaster. The papers may have had a few untrue accounts about it, but they can never tell half of the suffering which the people endured nor half describe the ruins, for they cannot be described. No one who was not there can ever be made to realize the full extent of the misery and how completely Frisco is wiped off the map. I lingered amid the ruins eight days before I could fully decide to leave, for I realized I would not find another city like "Frisco" any place in this country.

I fully expect to return some day, but of course I can't tell just when.

Several persons have asked me why I didn't stay. They said there would be great opportunities for any one now. I don't pay much attention to them, for I realize they don't understand the situation there. It is simply a case of "Where ignorance is bliss."

I will never forget the generous hospitality which was accorded the homeless by the ones who had homes, and also the people of Oakland and community.

Dear old Kentucky, with all her boasted hospitality can never surpass, and will have to awaken if she equals, the noble people of California in their generosity.

But the entire country has been responding nobly to appeals for aid, and I see by the clipping from THE LEDGER which you sent me, that Maysville is not lagging.

Here are a few of the signs tacked on the freight cars which are being rushed to the relief, laden with provisions:

"Flour for unfortunate Frisco from the citizens of Nevada, Mo.," "To the Mayor of San Francisco. Relief from Denver. More to follow," and many similar placards.

I could tell you enough about Frisco, before and after the fire, to fill a book, but I am tired writing and I know you will be tired of reading all this.

I honestly believe if you were to go to the middle of the Sahara Desert you would find the "Man from Maysville."

The train I came East on, stopped at a small town—Gallup, N. M.—to take water. I got off the train for a little exercise and thought I was out of existence way down there among the sandhills. I went into a little drugstore and wrote a postal and gave it to the clerk to mail for me. He looked at the address and said, "Are you from Maysville?" When I told him I was, he said his name was Crutcher, and he was born in Maysville, and his father was a Christian Minister. The only Maysville family he knew was the McDongals; said he left Maysville over twenty years ago, when he was quite young.

With love and best wishes, HARRY.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Blood is the Life

The essential to health, beauty of form and appearance and the well-being of the individual. Impure, impoverished, vitiated or depraved blood will not permit or sustain a healthy condition of the body. By the judicious and persistent use of the indications of impure blood disappear; the dull eye becomes radiant, the step elastic, the pallor of the complexion is replaced by glowing, rosy cheeks, the languor and tired feelings of the individual vanish, the mental and physical vigor returns and all danger of a premature death is averted. McAdé's Sarsaparilla is for sale by

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Maysville Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Maysville, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Maysville's kidney sufferers.

A. W. McClanahan, of A. W. & B. P. McClanahan, grocers, at 121 Second street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills more heartily today than I did five years ago when I told the Maysville people that this medicine had cured me of severe kidney trouble and backache that had bothered me more or less for twenty years and seemed to be growing worse and worse all the time. I repeat that I can more confidently recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today than I did in that testimonial because my cure has been permanent and I have had no kidney trouble for nearly five years. As proof that I am a firm believer in Doan's Kidney Pills I will be only too pleased to reiterate the above to anyone who may inquire. I got the remedy at J. Jas. Wood & Son's Drugstore."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
